John Henry Lester 1883, alt.

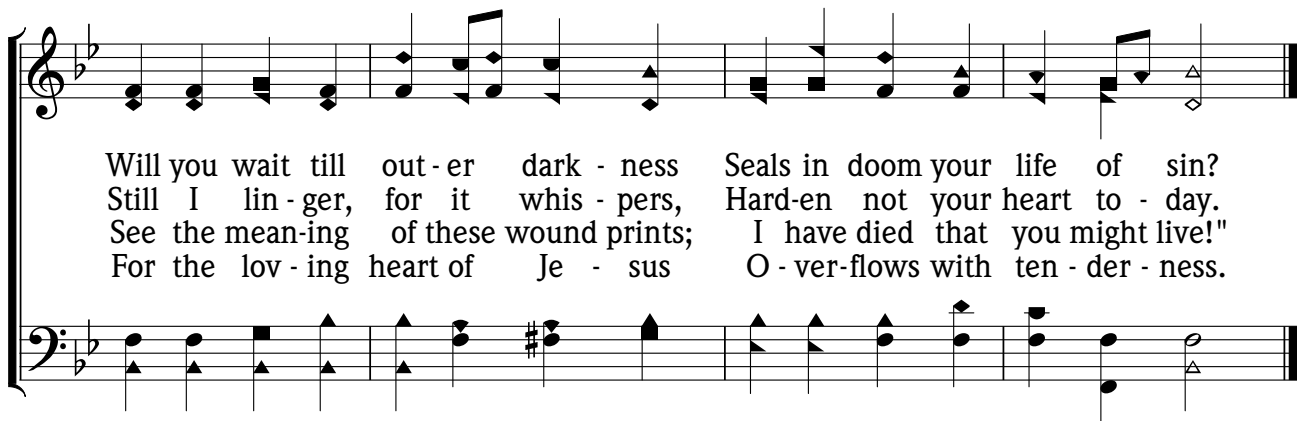

1. Hush, my soul, what voice is plead - ing? You can feel its si - lent pow'r;
2. Hark! it is a voice of sweet-ness, Ten - der - ly it speaks, and true!
3. What is this that steals be - side me? Can it be that at my side,
4. Hush, my soul! It is your Sa - vior! And He seeks His lost one now;

Who is this that speaks so gent - ly In this sol - emn wan - ing hour?
Dark and sad, yet strange - ly yearn - ing, For a peace I nev - er knew.
In His own mys - ter - ious pres - ence, Stands the won - drous Cru - ci - fied?
He is wait - ing, flee not from Him, Ven - ture near, be - fore Him bow;

Come, poor sin - ner; life is fleet - ing, And your soul is dark with - in;
Half in - clined to stay and list - en, Half in - clined to go my way;
"Why poor sin - ner, do you lin - ger? I am wait - ing to for - give;
Call on Him; He will for - give you; And He will not love you less;

Will you wait till out - er dark - ness Seals in doom your life of sin?
Still I lin - ger, for it whis - pers, Hard - en not your heart to - day.
See the mean - ing of these wound prints; I have died that you might live!"
For the lov - ing heart of Je - sus O - ver - flows with ten - der - ness.
